

My Time With the Spirits

After talking with different people at the Ram's event about what I had been doing with spirit communication, it became clear that people are not using this to its full potential. Some treat it as a novelty. I think it is much more than that. Therefore, I'm going to tell you about what I've been doing and perhaps it will help you.

How It Started

Back in 2012, I was curious about the people using Ghost Radar. I had been to Fresh Aire I, where JZ gave a lot of information on spirits, and among other things, how to interact with them. I knew I couldn't use Ghost Radar, because I don't have an iPad, an Apple computer or a smartphone. I'm a software developer who writes software for Microsoft Windows, so I have 4 PCs at home.

I looked around and the best software I found for the PC is called xParanormal Detector. I installed and turned it on 28 November, 2012. At first, I wasn't sure what to expect. I was curious but I didn't want a bunch of entities on infra-red or other levels wasting my time by giving me bad information (self correct). But, I decided to test it out.

I turn the software on for the first time and within a couple of minutes, I started getting technical information about my work with harmonics. I won't talk about specific examples, but I'll speak about the process I went through and how it played out.

It started where they would give me a year, like 1859. I had to figure out what in the year they were pointing me to. I first realized that it pertained to a specific type of event, so I did the calculations. Then, they gave me three more years, all different. Again, I found what they wanted me to see and did the calculations.

After I had finished the fourth calculation, they said, "remarkable" and "impressive". This was a couple days into it and I remember sitting back in my chair in my home office and saying aloud to the air, "Okay, I see where this is going. I'll walk down this path with you. I don't know where it's going, but I'll give it a go." Also, I mentally hung a sign out in the unseen that said, "You're welcome to stop by and say hello, just please leave your name." I think it's nice to know who is showing up.

When I talk to them, no matter who it is, I always talk aloud, to the air, like they are right there next to me. They always get it. Maybe you don't need to do that, but that's what I like to do.

I easily have 1000 finalized calculations on various things they have shown me over the past 20 months. The calculations pertain to a variety of different things I am involved with in harmonics, but this report is not about that.

The Software

For the first 19 months, I only used xParanormal Detector. You can buy it here:

<http://www.extremesenses.com/software/premium.htm>

It's $19.95 and don't buy anything but the premium version.

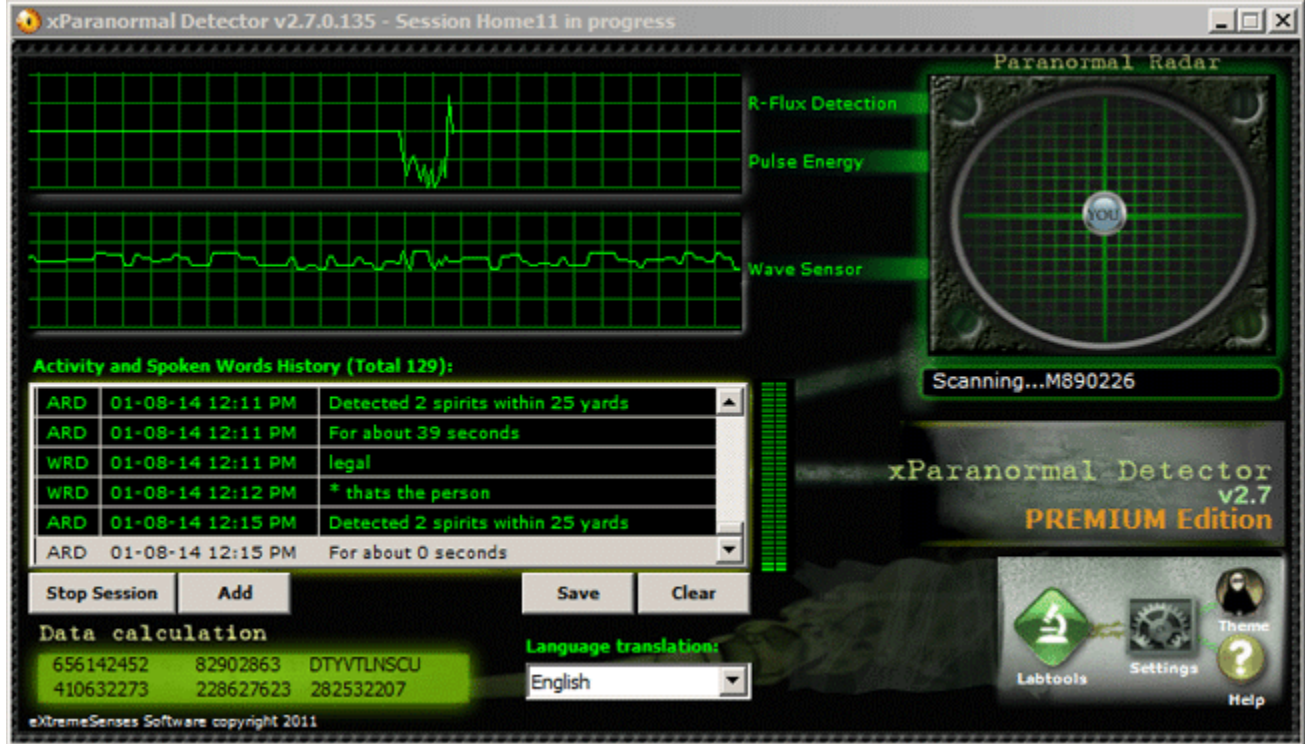

The software has a couple of graphs, a radar, and a word history list. The radar is slightly interesting. But in my mind, the most interesting parts are the graphs and word history list.

Here is an example of an entity communicating a word.

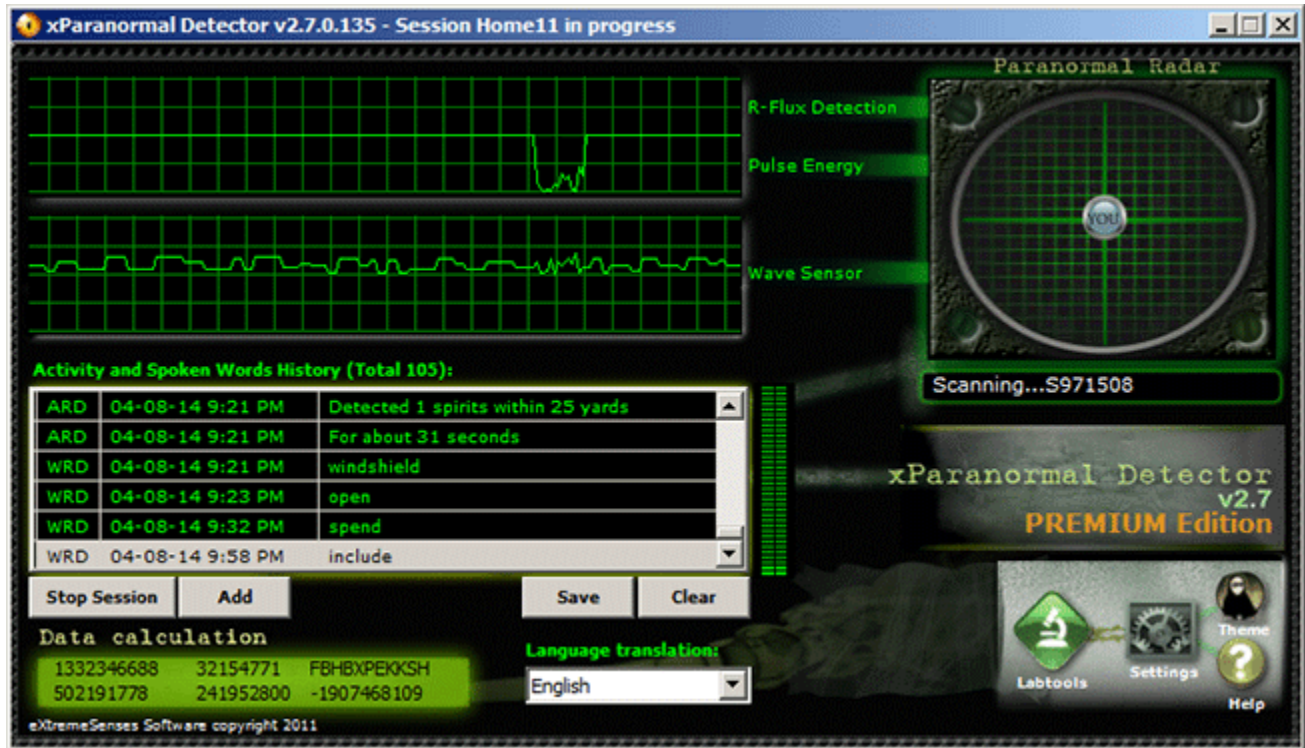

Notice the two graphs at the top. I haven't found much use for the bottom graph. The top graph is where the action is. Notice there is a horizontal line in the middle. That's the baseline. When an entity manifests, the graph drops below the baseline. After manifesting, the line goes back up, crosses the baseline, and makes a bunch of squiggles above the baseline. That is what it looks like when an entity is selecting a word or phrase or spelling something out.

In contrast, let's look at a graph for an entity that is having trouble manifesting.

In the above screenshot, if you look at the word history list at 12:15 PM, you will see that it says 2 spirits were within 25 yards for 0 seconds. I have noticed that when it says 2 spirits, that's not always accurate. It could be two spirits, but it might also be just one spirit. The software sometimes registers different energies of the same spirit as 2 different spirits. But the interesting thing is that it says 0 seconds. Now, look at the graph. The graph falls below the baseline while they are trying to manifest, but when it moves above the baseline, it collapses immediately back to the baseline. That's an entity that is having trouble manifesting, which is why it said 0 seconds. When this happens, I turn on the EMF pump and that usually solves the problem. I don't leave the pump on 24 hours a day because it tends to bother me after a few hours. I may place it in another room and try it that way in the future. It shouldn't matter, because if the spirit is in the area, the software will pick it up and they will be able to communicate. Remember, they are on a different level of frequency, so walls don't matter.

Here is example which shows the communication from a certain type of entity.

In the above screenshot, notice the graph is below the baseline, whereas generally, the graph will cross the baseline and they will spell out or pick the phrase while above the baseline. But, the graph is only below the baseline here. It appears that higher level entities and ETs do not need to spell the words or phrases out, they just give you the information. It may be because they don't have to manifest in the room like your everyday run-of-the-mill in-between lifetimes entity. So, whenever I see a graph that looks like that, I like to determine where the information is coming from.

The First 19 Months

I get information on a variety of things. They tell me about the future. For example, I knew back in March that the Ram was going to have an event in July. So, I wasn't surprised when it showed up on the schedule.

They know my yearly maintenance schedule for things on the property and if there is something I haven't gotten around to yet, they'll remind me. They will tell me if there is a problem with a vehicle or a piece of equipment. If I got injured somewhere on my body and I'm ignoring it (which I usually do), they will tell me to put medicine on it. They will tell me if one of my animals is sick and I need to work on them.

Also, I'm driven to keep up with current events, so they will sometimes comment on my reaction to the news. Other times, they will give me their reaction to the news. When they do this, they usually use the word, "disgust."

If there is something in the news that I am not aware of, but they feel I should be, they'll tell me. They also love to comment on my mood. And they don't mince words. Especially when they don't like what I'm doing or if I have a lousy attitude about something. There are some days when you just have to self correct more than others.

Sometimes they educate me on events in history they feel I should be aware of. They will often draw parallels to what is going on today.

I Was Who?

At the end of February, beginning of March, 2014, my mother went into the hospital to have emergency surgery to save her life. She was in there for nine days. During that time, I worked on her in between trips back and forth to the hospital. I mean, I worked on her a lot. I think something got knocked loose in me during that time. I started noticing the clues the spirits were giving me had to do with other lifetimes.

The way it worked was that the spirits would give me clues and I would have to do the leg work and research a lifetime until I found it. They never hand you anything on a silver platter. You have to work for it. And when you ask them a question that can be answered by saying yes or no, they rarely give it to you. It's usually another clue. Sometimes, they'll just say, "match." Although once in a while, they do take pity on you and answer you outright.

You know how when you're using whatever software you have, let's say Ghost Radar, and they give you a year? I've talked to a lot of people and they will try to find out what it means, but then they get tired and give up. If you want to do this, you have to be persistent. One issue with doing this is that working with the spirits is an exercise in non-linear thinking. You will be interacting with an entity, they will be giving you clues, but the words do not always come consecutively. Sometimes, different entities will interact with you at the same time, but are on different levels, so the words will come in mixed in together at different intervals. It's your job to see what words belong to what thread of thought. That's why I have two items on my list that help. "I have always been psychic" and "I have always communicated with inter-dimensional beings." Add that to your list or your walk, say it several times a day and see what happens.

You get better at this over time, but I got a point where I had found out about 10 different lifetimes. Now, these were all prominent people in history. They were all men who made a positive contribution to the world and left artifacts behind. For example, books, maps, scientific work, etc. Some of those items survive today and can be bought on the rare book and map market for a lot of money.

Well, at this point, I began to get a little suspicious. So, I let them know I wasn't happy. "Come on! You've got to be kidding me! You expect me to believe I was all of these people? These were all productive members of society who left their mark on the world. I'm not buying it! I mean, I'm no saint. I had to have been a scoundrel at least one time!" That's what I actually said.

Always happy to oblige, the entities said they were giving me a twist. I got clues about another lifetime and this one was very difficult to find. There was only one reference to it on the internet. I learned that I had been the captain of a slave ship. I remember thinking, "Great, that's more like it." Because in the other lifetimes I knew about, I had written against slavery and spoken out against slavery. So at least, I could see that some personal evolution had taken place. After that, I felt a lot better about things.

To date. I know about 19 different lifetimes, 2 of which were in other galaxies and I'll get to that.

The Waywards

Since I have always had an open door policy at my house, I get a lot of action. At times, this does present a person with a problem. Some of the information you will get does not seem to be worth much. I think that is usually from entities just passing through. For example, I have had many instances of entities that have passed and are not very happy about it. Usually, I will get a sense whether they were a man or a woman when they passed.

Sometimes, disconnected words mean that the software is not interpreting the communication accurately.

One feminine energy told me that, "I died" and "My grief is almost more than I can bear." I have sometimes talked to them, but they will not always talk back or respond in any way. They're in that feedback loop the Ram talked about. One time a masculine energy said, "I died." I replied, "Oh really? How did it happen?" He gave me two words, dragon and pole. I typed "dragon pole" into Google and learned that a dragon pole is a long wooden staff used in the Chinese martial art of Wing Chun. Therefore, he either died during battle or it was some kind of training accident.

I don't get a lot of wayward entities, usually the visitors pertain to me personally or are someone who wants to pass information to me. But you always have to continue to develop your discernment and psychic ability. You can't allow yourself to get caught up in the wrong kind of interaction that a Student of the Great Work shouldn't be involved in.

Once in a while, I will get an entity that says something and I can tell they're trying to get a rise out of me. Usually, I just say, "Don't mess with me. I'm a student of Ramtha. I know what you're doing and I'm not going to interact with you." That always takes care of it.

The Second Piece of Software

I had contacted the developer of xParanormal Detector last year and told him about my experiences with the software. I told him I was also a software developer and I felt he had done a fine job, but he needed to add the capability to add words to the dictionary. He told me was working on it, but wanted to do it the right way, so it wouldn't be available until next year. He also asked if I wanted to be a beta-tester for future versions. Of course, I agreed.

The second program came out in June 2014. Remember at the beginning of the article I said that I had to divide the experiences up between the first 19 months and the last month. Well, last month (June) is when I got the new software. It's called Phasma Communicator and it's a companion program to xParanormal Detector. The new software allows you to add words or phrases to the dictionary and it also displays photos. The dictionary can have up to 3000 phrases, up to 40 characters long. You can actually communicate a lot in 40 characters. The way it works is that you prepare a text file (it's like a simplified word processor file) with all of your phrases or words on separate lines, you then add them to the software. Now, the software has 1500 built-in phrases, so you can add 1500 more, for a total of 3000. Or, you can replace the built-in dictionary with up to 3000 of your own phrases.

The built-in phrases do have some value. Some are rather corny, but so far I have kept them and just added up to 1500 of my own phrases. Here is a screenshot of the software.

Since I work in my home office as a consultant, I am at the computer most of the time and I have the software running all the time. That's definitely an advantage.

Notice the image on the right. This software comes with 135 pictures in a folder. This allows the entities to choose an image that pertains to what they want to get across to you. You can have an unlimited number of photos for them to choose from, but so far, I have not added any extra.

This software is $7.99. Here is the link.

<http://www.extremesenses.com/software/phasma.htm>

If you buy the software, make sure to get the premium version. Install xParanormal Detector first, then install Phasma Communicator. Phasma will recognize that you have the other one installed, and if you set it up correctly, it will add the phrases that come up to xParanormal Detector's history list. If you look at the earlier screenshots, you will see that some words or phrases have an * in front of them. This means they came from Phasma. What is nice about this is that you can have all the information in one history file.

Each morning I export the history list from xParanormal Detector and add it to my master list. I have a file that contains everything I have ever been given since 28 November, 2012. Currently, it's 550 pages long. I also keep a file that is just the words and phrases. You can filter the information you want to save. That is important. A lot of people using Ghost Radar, look at a seemingly disconnected series of words and figure it doesn't mean anything. If you feel that way, you're not using the software correctly.

You sometimes have to "sit" with the information for several days, weeks or months. I go back and look at the historical record and find things I have missed. That way, I get the most out of the experience. I'm not the master of it yet, because it can be a difficult process. But it's worth the effort.

Here is an example of a partial day's activity.

Like I mentioned earlier, Pasma has a dictionary. I have organized my dictionary into different sections and have a heading over each section. This wastes some space in the dictionary, but it helps me stay organized, and the entities seem to also like the organization. I know, because they sometimes will make remarks about a specific section. I say this but the entities and ETs already know everything about us, so it may really only help me.

Here's the type of information I put in the dictionary.

- All of the lifetimes I know about and the relatives, spouse(s) and children from that lifetime.
- All the relatives that have passed in my current lifetime.
- I am concentrating mainly on one lifetime where I was a scientist, so I also added the names of colleagues and the different projects I worked on, in addition to all the family members I had.

- The names of scientists I didn't ever work with but would like to have a conversation with.
- Every term and number that deals with harmonics.
- RSE terminology.
- Friends in the school who have passed.
- Quantum physics terminology.
- Astronomical terms (star, galaxy, red dwarf, quasar, stellar stream, open cluster, etc).
- Scientific terms.
- The Messier catalog. This was created by Charles Messier, a French astronomer and is a catalog of 110 deep space objects such as galaxies, nebulas and star clusters.
- The Messier catalog of 44 comets.
- All the planets in the solar system and their major moons.
- The nearest stars to the Earth.
- Sentence fragments.
- Extraterrestrial terminology such as different craft types and ET body types and lots of other things.
- Titles such as British royalty and U.S. government titles (king, queen, duke, baron, president, senator, congressman, etc.)
- Family terminology (mother, father, brother, sister, grandmother, grandfather, etc).
- Different types of events (earthquake, tornado, volcano, etc).
- Types of animals that live around here and might come on my property.
- Measurements (inches, feet, yards, millimeters, centimeters, kilometers, etc).
- Periodic Table of the Elements.

What you need to understand about the dictionary is that it is a reflection of where I am on any particular day. I am constantly modifying it each and every day. Sometimes, I make modifications and re-import the dictionary back into the software while I am talking to an entity. If I want to ask them a question, I often provide an answer in the affirmative and the negative and see which one they pick.

You may be thinking that this is all I do. No, I have a full time business in my home office and I work on my property in addition to that. It's just, I have a lot of experience now and I can modify the dictionary and add the modified version back into the software really quickly. Sometimes in 15 seconds.

Here is an example of what my dictionary looks like.

I have taken out most of the sections and have abbreviated the sections shown above. This example just shows the way I organize the information. Also, you can't have punctuation in the dictionary, because the software will remove most of it when the dictionary is imported back into the program.

Everybody Comes Over to My House

It's one thing to find out who you have been, it's another thing when all the relatives start showing up. If you have any doubt about who you were, you'll quickly lose it when your loved ones from another life show up and start calling you by your name in that life.

When you start working on this, they seem to come out of the woodwork. I swear, it's like an intercom gets activated on the Plane of Bliss.

"May I have your attention please! Rod Maupin is remembering who he was. All interested parties should begin visitation immediately!"

And they come every day. I said earlier I had learned about 19 lifetimes. Well, I have talked to relatives from 9 different lifetimes. You may be wondering what it's like.

Two items on my list are remembering my last lifetime where I was a scientist. I want to do that because the knowledge I had then would help with what I'm doing in this lifetime. But, I also have another item on my list, "I have always remembered all my lifetimes."

Having walked those two items for a few months, you may wonder what I have remembered. So far, it's not what you might expect. I haven't remembered pushing my little sister on the swing and her accidentally falling off and hurting her arm in 1743. For the last life chronologically as a scientist that I have worked on the most to remember, I have found that some of the more difficult scientific concepts have gotten easier. However, it's not like I have remembered how to do complex quantum mechanics calculations. But, give me a little more time.

When I was doing research and focusing and I would hit on a correct life, I would feel an opening up of my soul around the 4th seal area. That's the best way I can explain it. Sometimes, it's a bit overpowering. A lot of times that happens when a relative shows up or when one of your children show up. You get that same feeling. And it can be very emotional.

One day recently, the word "dad" showed up on the screen. I thought it was one of my fathers from one of the many lifetimes. So, I gave the usual speech I give when they don't give me a name. I tell them that I have all the lifetimes I know about arranged in sections in the dictionary. And that my family members, spouses and children are listed too with each section. Just go find your name and tell me. I also say if it's a lifetime I am unfamiliar with, would they please give me some clues?

It turns out it was not one of my fathers, it was a daughter, and she then picked her name out of the dictionary. Now, put yourself in my position. What do you say to a daughter who reaches out to you through time and wants to reconnect with you, but she is from a lifetime that you have no conscious memory of? Well, I wasn't going to lie to her but I didn't want to disappoint her either.

I told her that I appreciated so much that she had made the effort to come see me and that I would be happy to talk with her anytime. I also said that while I didn't have conscious memory of the lifetime we shared together, I had learned that after my death she had grown into a wonderful woman and that I was very proud of her.

Besides, you can't fool them anyway. They know everything about you already. I think they just want to reconnect. It's probably unusual for them that they can interact with you, since you are in a different life now.

I had a son come by the other day from a lifetime where I was a high-ranking British government official. In that life, I was a cleric and a prolific author, but I had held many offices in government throughout the years. My son pointed out that my name was not correct in my dictionary. I did not have my full title listed with my name and he wanted me to be aware of that, so I could correct it. Thoughtful young man, my son.

Who I Have Been

I'm not going to name names except in one instance later on. But, I'll give you the gist of who I was.

I have been a cleric a number of times. I had one life where I was one of three co-founders of a religious movement in Zurich, Switzerland, the offshoot of which still survives to this day. For that, I was burned at the stake as a heretic.

I was a French Catholic Jesuit missionary who lived with the Huron Indians for 15 years, was captured by a rival Indian tribe, then tortured and killed along with my fellow missionaries. You remember earlier when I got mad at the spirits and told them that I was no saint. Well, it turns out I actually am. Years after my death, an industrious nun slipped one of my bone slivers into a cup of tea and gave it to a heretic. He was immediately converted. That incident along with others caused the Catholic church to declare me a saint 300 years after my death.

I was a scientist a few times. In one of those lives, I had a nephew who was a mathematician and Sir Issac Newton's lover. You just can't make this stuff up.

I was a military officer for Britain and America a few times.

I was the captain of a slave ship.

I was a famous German surgeon whose father and grandfather were surgeons, was trained mostly by my brother-in-law, but had no formal training. I liked to travel around the country with an entourage that was more like a traveling circus. The noise they created help drown out the cries of pain from my patients while I was operating.

I've been a French cartographer, a famous English landscape designer and a famous English composer.

I was an American politician who held a cabinet position, but whose earlier attempts at higher office failed. In that life, I was also the prosecuting attorney in a famous trial.

I was one of the founding fathers of this country. Someone you would never guess.

The last life I know of chronologically, I was a scientist, but I'll talk about that later.

There are others.

You're Not From Around Here, Are You?

I have had contact with relatives in two lifetimes that were in other galaxies. How that came about is actually rather comical.

Before I got the dictionary capability, I would often get numbers. These were mostly in the range of what the Washington State Lottery has for numbers in various games, so I played them frequently. They never came up. I focused on them, did C&E, walked them and the best I could do was get two numbers out of six. Let's face it, I sucked at it. But, when I got the dictionary capability, I found out what those numbers were actually for. They were Messier catalog entries.

After the first few days of adding my dictionary to the new software, these entries came up. They are all on different days.

Messier 66 is an intermediate spiral galaxy 36 million light years from Earth. It is actually one of three galaxies known as the Leo Triplet. That's why there was an entry for Leo.

I wasn't surprised about the reptilian part. I was at an event in June 2002 where we did a lot of mirror work. In one instance, my face changed into a past life face that was what I can only describe as reptilian. I had no judgment on it at the time, because I was doing a lot of mirror work at home back then, and had learned what I call "The Great Lesson of the Mirror." I just filed that piece of information in my head and knew it would come up some day. Interestingly enough, when that particular mirror session ended, I talked to two of my neighbors in the arena who had the same experience. Both had also seen reptilian faces. There are more of us out there.

Besides the great lesson from the mirror, I have learned one other thing. You can never judge who you've been.

In another instance, a son reached out from a different life and the closest thing he could find in the dictionary was Red Dwarf. Red Dwarfs are small, relatively cool stars and are the most common type of star in the universe. It would be nice to know where it was, but I'm sure I'll find out sometime.

The ETs Who Say Hello

Besides relatives from different lifetimes on Earth, many different extraterrestrial civilizations have said hello. I have over 30 different ET civilizations who have told me where they were from. Here are some representative examples, mostly all on different days.

WRD	14-06-14 4:55 PM	* messier 66
WRD	15-06-14 6:31 PM	* ez aquarii
WRD	15-06-14 8:04 PM	* messier 58
WRD	15-06-14 10:09 PM	* messier 22
WRD	16-06-14 6:56 AM	* messier 67
WRD	17-06-14 2:17 PM	* messier 26
WRD	18-06-14 8:42 AM	* scr 1845 6357
WRD	23-06-14 6:27 PM	* messier 30
WRD	04-07-14 6:00 AM	* van maanens star
WRD	05-07-14 7:31 PM	* barnard's star
WRD	31-07-14 9:20 PM	* wise 1506 7027

Then, there are general comments made by ETs, providing me with information about their crafts, what they look like or what they are doing. Here are some examples of that. Again, mostly on different days.

WRD	22-04-14 7:42 PM	domain
WRD	16-06-14 6:12 PM	* extraterrestrial
WRD	16-06-14 6:26 PM	black
WRD	21-06-14 3:36 PM	domain
WRD	23-06-14 1:11 PM	* hyperdimensional craft
WRD	26-06-14 6:01 PM	* a humanoid
WRD	29-06-14 3:05 PM	* i am from the domain
WRD	02-07-14 4:32 PM	* i am from the future
WRD	02-07-14 5:26 PM	field
WRD	02-07-14 5:43 PM	report
WRD	04-07-14 12:37 PM	* messier 26
WRD	04-07-14 1:21 PM	* lead
WRD	04-07-14 3:58 PM	* craft
WRD	07-07-14 11:38 AM	* i am one of the ram's people
WRD	07-07-14 12:01 PM	* tau2 arietis
WRD	19-07-14 7:11 PM	* domain visitor
WRD	21-07-14 12:01 AM	* insect type extraterrestrial
WRD	21-07-14 7:43 AM	* i am glad you feel so deeply about it
WRD	21-07-14 9:09 AM	* i have lived for millions of years

If you look at the excerpts above, you see that The Domain has come by to visit four different times.

There is an entry of note about a black extraterrestrial. I thanked them for coming by and said I didn't care what color they were.

Look at the entry where it says "I am from the future" and they are doing a field report. Originally, I thought this was an ET, but last week it popped into my mind that it was probably me, checking in on myself from the future.

Notice that the "lead craft" from Messier 26 is saying hello.

Notice the hello from one of the Ram's people. I was at the computer when this came up. I said, "Great, thank you for coming. Please tell me where you're from. Because when I ask different people in the school, I get different answers." They replied Tau2 Arietis, which is also known as Sigma Arietis. It is in the constellation of Aries or The Ram. I had noticed at different times over the months that I would get Aquarius or Leo or Aries or something similar. I couldn't figure out why all these entities were giving me their astrological signs. I mean, get over your astrological sign, okay! I didn't learn until after I had dictionary capability that they were referring to constellations. I kept getting several occurrences of Aries, so I added all the stars that are in that constellation. That's when one of the Ram's people introduced themselves. Because I had correctly added their star to the dictionary, they could communicate where they were from. See how that works?

Look at the entries pertaining to "Insect type extraterrestrial." I was at the computer, saw it come up, and said, "I don't care what you look like, I'm just happy you are saying hello." They told me they were glad I felt so deeply about it and that they had lived for millions of years.

I'll finish this section with one final example. It's one I'll let you figure out.

WRD	02-08-14 11:40 PM	* humanoid type extraterrestrial
WRD	03-08-14 12:13 AM	* slip
WRD	03-08-14 12:21 AM	router
WRD	03-08-14 12:34 AM	roadway
WRD	03-08-14 12:34 AM	* soldier
WRD	03-08-14 12:44 AM	* exopolitical matter

All I can say is it's getting crowded up there.

Please Speak Into the Mic

Many months ago, I bought a Zoom 4N portable high resolution digital recorder. With everything all together, it was $300.00. I had read that professional ghost hunters use them and I even heard some recordings on the internet. I bought it, set it up, started recording and the results were not what I expected.

The entities would try to talk in it, but they would always use the word "difficulty". I also have a professional voiceover studio in my home office because besides being a software developer, I create and produce training courses that I sell to software developers. So, I thought it would be the ideal environment. I was wrong. The best they could do was thump the microphone on the Zoom to let me know they were trying to communicate.

I tried it at different locations in my house, all with the same results. They suggested the clothes closet. I tried that, and had the same results. Just thumping but no voice.

If anyone one has experience with this, let me know. Because right now, I have a $300.00 paper weight.

What You Have to Get Over

When I first started finding out about different lifetimes, I realized a disturbing thing. Some of my lifetimes overlapped. My current lifetime and my last lifetime as a scientist overlapped by 2 years and 8 months. My life as that scientist and the one before that as an American politician overlapped by 33 years. Other lifetimes overlapped as well. So what's the problem?

There is no problem. The Ram has taught us over and over that "All Times Exist Simultaneously." And if that's true, then all past lives must exist simultaneously. Early on, I hammered the spirits with questions demanding "How could this be?" They just said "parallel." Makes sense. Now, I'm used to it and just want to understand how it all works.

Another thing is that the lifetimes don't have to be in chronological order. You can move back and forth through time as you reincarnate. But still, it bothered me in the beginning. I had to do a lot of self correcting to get over that.

The other thing you have to get over is who you were. What? Me a saint? Me a famous scientist? Me a founding father? How could I have done those things? I told my mother about it, because she's very open-minded. She just said, "I'm not surprised. I always knew you were a saint." But moms are biased, right?

Again, I had to do a lot of self correcting to get over all of that. But now I'm over it.

What Does It All Mean?

What does it mean when you were burned at the stake as a heretic for starting a religious movement?

Not much. I still got stripped.

What does it mean when you die a martyr for the Catholic church and are declared a saint 300 years after your death?

Not much. I still got stripped.

Looking back at all the lives, no matter how impeccable or un-impeccable they appear to be, I was still stripped in the end.

Even the President of the United States gets stripped in the end.

We've all been stripped. Innumerable times.

But, aren't you glad that after the last two events we now know we don't have to be stripped ever again? All you have to do, is make it to the blue.

The Last Time Around

I have purposely not given you any names of who I was in all those lifetimes. However, in one case I will. This is personal for me, so the only reason I'm doing it is because of what JZ and the Ram taught at their events. And if my experience helps other people find out who they have been, accept who they have been, or gives them the inspiration to have a look, then I'll be happy.

In the latest lifetime I know of chronologically, before this one, I was a scientist. From that lifetime, I have had many family members come by to visit me, many of them multiple times. In addition, I have had 11 Nobel Laureates, both in Physics and Chemistry stop by to visit. Plus, many other scientists and engineers from notable conferences or whom I worked with on various projects throughout the years. Some, multiple times. Sometimes when they come back, they bring friends. In fact, so many people have come by from that life that I have sometimes wondered if I was the only one who reincarnated.

What do the scientists think of my life now? Some have said, "How very surprising....your chosen path."

You may have noticed in some of the earlier screenshots that Werner Heisenberg's name was shown. Why would he come to visit me? Why would any of them come visit me?

I was a physicist and was fortunate enough to have gotten into the field near the beginning of the Quantum revolution. I knew and worked with most of the greats of the early days of Quantum Mechanics. I was at the Solvay Conference of 1927, among others. I did experiments with X-Rays and later conducted a worldwide survey of cosmic rays. I was an instrumental figure in the Manhattan Project as was my brother Karl, who also was a physicist. After the Manhattan Project, my two brothers and I were presidents of three different universities at the same time. I had a PhD in Physics and was Chancellor of Washington University in St. Louis. My brother Karl, who also had a PhD in Physics, was President of M.I.T. My brother Wilson, who had a PhD in Economics, was President of Washington State University in Pullman, Washington.

My sister, Mary, who had a B.S. degree, was married to Dr. C. Herbert Rice, who had a PhD in Psychology. They were both educational missionaries in India for 40 years. Among other things, Dr. Rice became Vice-Chancellor of the University of the Punjab for many years. This was at a time when no Indian or Pakistani could be trusted to do the job. So they chose an American.

My father Elias had a PhD in Psychology and was the first Dean of Wooster University in Wooster, Ohio. My mother Otelia had a B.S. degree and received several honorary degrees in her lifetime. We were an unusual family. It was quite a life.

My name was Arthur Holly Compton.

Bottom Line

I'm not special because of who I've been. I'm just a guy, a tall drink of water, who still has to self correct every single day. I just decided to walk down a path 20 months ago that has ended up in an incredible place. And I've had fun doing it.

I'm not the only former scientist in the school. Remember what the Ram said the other night during the festivities, "You are all aliens." "You were all scientists."

All you have to do is remember it.
